The American Academy of Pediatrics also recommends 9-12 hours of sleep for children aged 6-12 and 8-10 hours of sleep per day for youth aged 13-18.*

But only 49% of Delaware middle school and 24% of high school students reported getting 8 or more hours of sleep on an average school night.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends all children should be consuming a well balanced breakfast daily in order to sustain proper brain function.

But less than half of Delaware middle (39%) and high school students (47%) report eating breakfast everyday during the past 7 days.

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that children ages 6-17 should get at least 60 minutes of moderate to vigorous physical activity daily.

In Delaware, only 50% of middle and 44% of high school students got at least an hour of physical activity on 5 or more days a week on average.

In Delaware, 50% of middle and 45% of high school students play video games or use the computer for non-school related work 3 or more hours on an average school day.

The World Health Organization recommends that recreational screen time be a maximum of 2 hours daily for adolescents.*

Body and Mind: The Need for a Whole Person Approach to Health

Physical Health & Mental Health*

Delaware teens who report eating breakfast everyday or being physically active on a daily basis are less likely to report mental health concerns (23%) than those who report not having breakfast (45%) or exercising at all (39%).

Youth who report sleeping an average of 8-9 hours on a school night are also less likely to report mental health concerns (less than 21%) than those who averaged less than 5 or more than 10 hours (more than 42%).

*Mental health includes feeling sad/hopeless almost everyday for two weeks in a row, suicidal thoughts, plans of suicide, or suicide attempts in the past year.

Physical Health & Substance Use

Delaware high school students who report eating breakfast everyday in the past week are also less likely to report substance use (34%) than those who do not eat breakfast regularly (41%).

Teens who report getting an average of 8-9 hours of sleep on a school night are less likely to report substance use (32%) than those who average less than 6 hours or more than 10 hours (more than 40%).

Substance use includes the consumption/use of alcohol, marijuana, vape devices, or cigarettes in the past 30 days.